

A Word of Caution on Rat Bait

Posted on June 10, 2011 by Graham

As we get further into winter, it seems rats and mice migrate indoors, which also means there is more rat bait about...

Even the most careful person can get caught out. In a recent case a young Labrador got into the garage, climbed onto a bench and knocked a closed plastic container of rat bait off a shelf. It broke open on the ground allowing him to feast.

Luckily he was caught in the act and brought straight into the clinic so an emetic to empty his stomach was all he required.

Be careful with where you place your rat bait and with where you store it and if you think your pet has eaten some... phone us or bring it in immediately!
